DWELLINGS FOR THE POOR.

Some time since, it will be remembered, a project was set on foot in this city, for the erection of Dwellings for the Poor, which should furnish cheap and suitable tenements for worthy families whose means do not admit of the payment of the ordinary rent of a decent tenement. The need of such a provision was made evident by the observation of Mr. Ball, the city missionary, and other philanthropic individuals. Subsequently a company was formed, and incorporation obtained of the present Legislature, under the title of the Building Association. A committee was then appointed to look for a piece of land, &c., suitable to the purpose in view. This committee, we understand, are to report shortly to the subscribers, having observed a lot of land in the lower part of the city. The committee have in their minds, we believe, a plan for the erection of a building which would afford twelve apartments, the entire expense of which, land included, would be about five thousand dollars.

Whatever may be the details of the project, it is to be hoped that the design will be carried into immediate effect. It is essentially a charity of a most permanent and beneficial character, and calculated to ameliorate the condition of many poor families in an important respect. Now that the election is over, the attention of the benevolent may well be turned in this direction. Money has been liberally spent for the success of party purposes, let an equal generosity be displayed in the cause of humanity. Those who are now rejoicing in the recent political issue must, we are sure, be glad to give cause of joy to others. And how can this be done better than by providing the poor with cheerful, comfortable and tidy homes?

ASSOCIATION.

The "Working Men's Protective Union," which have sprung up in various parts of the country within a few years past, have been, so far as we are aware, entirely successful. The advantages which they offer to persons dependent upon their daily labor—and to those who are not thus dependent as well—are too great to be overlooked by thrifty and economical managers. By uniting means in a common fund, and purchasing the necessities of life at wholesale prices, while they are retailed at prices only sufficiently advanced to pay necessary expenses, a result is obtained from the principle of association of the most practical character. We have been rather surprised that working-men and others have not more generally adopted this saving expedient.

We observed a week or two since, accounts of a meeting of Protective Unions in New York, for the organization of a general Union, to make the system more thorough and complete.

A recent number of the N. Y. Sun contains an account of an association of this sort which has been eminently prosperous. The company was formed about nine months since, by a number of Mechanics, who contributed five dollars each to establish a grocery store, in the city of New York. The store was obtained and stocked with groceries at wholesale prices, which have been retailed to, not only the original members, but the public generally. The result has been that, selling articles at sufficient advance to pay expenses, and return fair interest on investments, not only have great savings been made in the purchase of groceries, but the stockholders have received a dividend of fifteen per cent actual profits. This fact is one worthy of note, and taken in connection with others of a similar character, it shows, what might be ascertained also from other sources, that the number of exchangers, of traders—the number of those who live upon the profits of conveying the necessities of life from the producer to the consumer, is much larger than it need be. At present too many people are engaged in the non-productive employment of exchange, and accordingly necessarily high prices have to be paid by the purchaser.

INAUGURATION DAY.

As the 4th of March comes on Sunday this year and the Inauguration day will be deferred till Monday, the query has arisen, who will be President on Sunday, Mr. Polk or Gen. Taylor? The difficulty will perhaps be got over by administering the oath of office on Sunday, and having the ceremony of Inauguration on Monday. The N. Y. Express says, "as some construe the Constitution there are a dozen hours in every four years, from 12 o'clock closing the 3d of March, to noon on the 4th, when the Government is without a President."

The 4th of March has not occurred on Sunday but once before since the formation of the constitution, viz: in 1821, and it will not happen again until 1877.

The Intelligencer says—"As to who will be President on Sunday, the 4th day of March next, we cannot tell, unless it be Capt. Goddard, of the Auxiliary Guard; and it would be easier to find a worse than a better one." Captain Goddard and his Guard have the charge of the Government property at Washington.

NEW TIMES.

The elections now being over, there is a chance for politicians to repent of their follies, correct their mistakes, and acknowledge their errors. We believe it is now perfectly in order to be magnanimous and just towards an opponent, safe to admit obvious facts, and in good taste to converse without bellowing.

Joseph Gungl has arrived in New York with his band of musicians, amongst the best that have ever visited this country. Gungl is a Hungarian, and very distinguished as a musical composer as well as performer. The New York Post states, on good authority, that Strauss and his band will soon come over.

THE MECHANIC LYCEUM.

It will be noticed that the annual course of lectures by this institution will commence on Thursday next, with a lecture from Prof. Wines, upon the Hebrew Commonwealth; to be followed by the remainder of Prof. W. W. lectures. These have been delivered in various places, and have received high commendations for their learning, ability and instructive character. Other eminent lecturers are announced for the M. L.

TOWN OF RESPECT.

A beautiful Silver Pitcher, at a cost of fifty dollars, is to be presented by the pupils of the North Phillips School, to their late highly esteemed and devoted Instructor, Mr. Charles M. Cushman, who has accepted the appointment of Teacher in the Bedford Street High School, in Boston.

The inscription on the front of the Pitcher, surrounded by a beautiful wreath, is: Presented, by the pupils of the North Phillips School, to Mr. C. M. Cushman, their faithful Teacher, as a small token of their respect and gratitude.

The Pitcher may be seen at Mr. E. K. Loken's store, No. 180 Essex street. The workmanship and finish do great credit to Mr. L.'s establishment.

THE STEYMARKERS.

Gave their last Concert in this city previous to their departure for Havana, on Wednesday evening. It was heard as usual by a delighted audience. The various concerts by this company here, have created a taste for a better order of musical performances than our community have been accustomed to enjoy.

The following statement we cut from the Christian World, a religious paper in Boston. Such facts as this, reiterated in the ears of Christian men and women, should excite a general burst of indignation, and call forth a rebuke from the pulpit and church, which would wither the pestiferous institution of slavery to its very roots.

"AN ESCAPE. We have just heard of the escape from slavery of a white girl, eighteen years of age, of uncommon beauty—the property of a clergyman at the South. When questioned as to her parentage, she did not state that her owner was her father."

THE FIRST VOLUME OF THE "SMITHSONIAN CONTRIBUTIONS TO KNOWLEDGE," recently published, contains a motto to the following appropriate sentiment from Smithsonian's manuscripts. "Every man is a valuable member of society who, by his observations, researches and experiments, procures knowledge for men." The Smithsonian publications are intended for the increase of knowledge, and will consist entirely of original matter, new facts, new thoughts, and new principles.

We are happy to find the following paragraph in yesterday's Gazette. The sentiment expressed meets our hearty approval. Mr. Russell has been known for many years as a faithful and diligent assistant to the various P. M.'s.

We understand that Hon. B. F. Browne has determined to resign the office of Postmaster of Salem, and are much gratified to learn that strong recommendations, from the body of the community, and from the three postmasters under whom he has officiated, have been sent to the head of the department, in favor of the appointment of Mr. George Russell, who has for a considerable portion of the last ten years performed most of the essential duties of the office. We trust he will now obtain the reward, due to his long and faithful services.

It is quoted, in Macaulay's forthcoming History of England, that the Long Parliament, in its rage against Christmas, ordered, in 1644, "that the 25th of December should be strictly observed as a fast, and that all men should pass it in humility, and that their fathers had so often committed on that day by toupung under the mistletoe, eating bonny's head, and drinking all favored with roasted apples."

The Panoramic Painting of Mexico and its Battles, at Lynde Hall, gives great satisfaction to visitors.

The Chronotype is in favor of perpetuating the associations connected with the Boston "Frog Pond," by having the fountain in its centre the shape of "a Mammoth Bullfrog, that most beautiful, gay and solemn of all amphibious creatures."

James Russell Lowell is said to be the author of the new "Fable for Critics"—a witty, racy, qu

POETRY.

THE STRANGER ON THE BELL.

By THOS. BUCHANAN REED.

Between broad fields of wheat and corn
In the lowly house where I was born;
The peach tree leans against the wall,
And the woodbine winds over all;
There is the shaded doorway still,
But a stranger's foot has crossed the sill.

There is the barn—and, as of yore,
I can smell the hay from the open door,
And see the busy swallows throng,
And hear the peewee's mournful song;
But the stranger comes—oh! painful proof—
His sheaves are piled to the heated roof.

There is the orchard—the very trees
Where my childhood knew long hours of ease,
And watched the shadowy moments run,
Till my life is lulled more shadow than sun.
The swing from the still sweeps the air,
But the stranger's children are swinging there.

There bubble the shady spring below,
With its lily-brook where the lilies grow;
'Twas there I found the calico root,
And watched the minnows poise and shoot,
And heard the robin have his wing—
But the stranger's bucket is at the spring.

Oh, ye who daily cross the sill,
Remember, for I love it still,
And when you cross the old barn eaves,
Then think what countless hours have passed
Have passed within that scented door
To gladden eyes that are no more.

Deal kindly with these orchard trees;
As when your children crowd their knees;
Their sweetest fruit they share in infancy,
As if old memories stirred their hearts;
To youthful spirit still leave the swing,
And in sweet reverence hold the spring.

The barn, the tree, the brook, the birds,
The meadow with their lowing herds,
The woodbine on the cottage wall—
My heart still lingers in the vale all,
Ye strangers on my native soil,
Sleep lightly, for I love it still.

Martin Farquhar Tupper, the English "poet of elegant leisure" was addressed a ballad to "The thingy nobles nations Confederate in one."

The tone of which may be seen in the following:

"O judge ye how degrading—
A Christian bought and sold!
A human monster, trading
In human flesh for gold;
When ruthlessly they plunder
Poor Africa's stolen gold,
And all to sell—sauder?
The mother and her child.

O free and fearless nation,
Wipe out this damning spot,
Earth's worst abomination,
And nature's blackest blot;
Begin and speed the rather
To help with sacred eyes
The children of your Father
Beneath the tropic sky.

I charge you by your power,
Your freedom and your fame,
To speed the blessed hour,
That wipes away this shame;
By all life's hopes and fears,
And fears beyond the grave,
Renounce these blood-bought riches,
And frankly free the slave."

FARM YARD.
Before the yellow barn lies
A beautiful variety
Of strutting cocks, advancing stout,
And flapping every chaffabrous
Hens, ducks, and geese, and all their brood,
And turkeys gabbling for their food;
While rustics thrash the wealthy floor,
And tempt them all to crowd the door.

VARIETIES.
A correspondent of the Lady's Newspaper says he has never been able to obtain a solution of the following enigmas. Can any one assist him?
My first is the terror of ladies on land,
My second the terror of sailors on water;
My whole has a warehouse of horrors on hand,
Which sailors do not fear, and which ladies rear.

Lord Howe gives the following account of one of his crew an Irishman—"The fellow was brave, but a little too fond of a can of grog, yet never omitted to repeat his prayers every night as he went to his hammock, 'I never murdered any man, and no man ever murdered me. So God bless all mankind.'"

A POSTHUMOUS JOKE. It is stated of a Venetian, a great humorist, who died some years since, that he made a provision of torches for his funeral, and, as such provision was valued with cracker, he caused to be privately distributed a confidential friend the hubbub which would result from the explosion, and which he calculated should take place in the most inconvenient spot. It is added that the result verified the most sanguine expectations of the projector.

A GENUINE ALCHYMIST. The Day of Alchemists understanding that the Bey of Tunis, who had been deposed, possessed the art of converting the base metals into gold, restored him to the throne, on condition that he revealed the secret. The Bey sent him with such pomp and ceremony a plough!

THE CHOLERA. The following fable may not be inopportune at the present moment.
One day a traveler met the plague going into Cairo, and accosted it thus—"For what purpose are you entering Cairo?" "To kill 3,000 people." "Some time, and the plague traveler said to the plague, and said, 'By all means you killed 30,000.' " "Nay," the plague replied,
"I killed but 3,000; fear did the rest." (The London Times.)

A GALLANT LION. A singular exciting scene is represented as having recently taken place at the village of Norwalk, Conn., in the menagerie of Raymond & Waring. Just as Miss Adelaide, the Lion Queen, had entered her den of wild beasts, and containing a lion, tiger, and two leopards, a violent gust of wind blew down the canvas forming the tent, and created a wild scene of confusion.
Immediately upon the occurrence of the accident the two leopards and tiger made a dash for the entrance spring upon the young lady; but the lion bounded between, and after killing one of the leopards, held the other two animals at bay, until the keeper came to the relief of the aid and undulating young lady. It was a most thrilling scene.

Good nature is one of the sweetest gifts of Providence. Like the pure sunshine, it glads dear, enlivens, and cheers. In the midst of hate, revenge, sorrow and despair, how glorious are its effects.

The fallings of good men are commonly more published in the world than their good deeds, and one fault of a deserving man shall meet with more reproaches than all his virtues praise.

Stammering (says Coleridge) is sometimes the cause of a pun. Some one was mentioning in Lamb's presence the cold heartedness of the Duke of Cumberland in restraining the Duchess from running up to the embrace of her son, whom she had not seen for a considerable time, and insisting on her receiving him in state.

"How horribly cold it was," said the narrator.
"Yes," said Lamb, in stammering way,
"but you know he is the Duke of Cumberland."

Mrs Theobald, of England, in a speech before a female chariot meeting, said that there were 100,000 female chariots in London and they intended to go in a body to Lord John Russell, and demand to have the chariot made the law of the land.

Highly important news from the South.

The following extract of a letter is from a very respectable merchant house, dated Washington, Rappahannock Co., Va.,
May 26, 1846.

Dr. D. Jayne—Dear Sir: Mr. Jones has been in a very bad state of health for more than a year; he has had the benefit of the best medical vice country affords, and has visited your office during last summer, but found no relief. On the 15th of April last, he purchased half a dozen bottles of your Tonic Vermifuge, and half a dozen boxes of Sennate Pills. Mr. Jones commenced with the Pills, and after taking a few doses, felt a decided improvement. The three bottles of Vermifuge brought him, he thinks, not less than 1000 wounds, and perhaps many more. He is now in better health than he has been in for years, and we hope a few more bottles of your Vermifuge and Pills will effect a permanent cure. All our physicians have entirely mistaken his case. Prof. Samuel Jackson, of your city, at the head. Mr. Jones is most anxious to get more of your Pills and Vermifuge as soon as possible. Respectfully, B. Jones & Co.

Cancer. An interesting case cured by Dr.
Jayne's Alternative.

In the spring of 1831, a Cancerous tumor appeared in the right breast of Mrs. Phee, wife of Peter Stretet, of Salem, N. J. It was examined by medical physicians, and was considered by all as cancerous, and besides bore all the characteristic marks of one. It continued to increase both in size and painfulness, until all hope of saving her life, by a surgical operation, was abandoned, when, after a consultation of eminent physicians, was performed, Jan. 1st, 1832, by Dr. John Rhea Horton, assisted by Dr. Redman, Dr. Jayne, and two other medical gentlemen. The whole tumor and right breast was removed, and after examination of the tumor, was pronounced by all present a Cancer of the most malignant character. In about three months, after entering into the hospital, the tumor was removed, and the patient, to get a second time, remained feeble, and her general health was exceedingly bad, as indeed it had been for several months. In the spring of 1832, a painful tumor made its appearance on the right side, immediately over the part formerly occupied by the nipple of the right breast, previous to its removal.
This tumor steadily increased, and soon became and became so painful as to deprive her of rest.
The glands under the right arm were enlarged; and Scribner, and a hard, irregular, and at times painful tumor, appeared in the left breast. No operation could now arrest the disease. The experience was now made with this ALTERNATIVE. It was at first given in small doses, three times a day, and the tumor very gradually, but steadily increased daily as long as the tumor, which was about six months, and the skin over and around the tumor was very tight and sore, and a strong solution of iodine and Hydrate of Potash, was used, and the tumor continued to increase in size for six weeks, and at times very painful, when the pain suddenly ceased altogether, and the tumor swelled out at the base, and became soft, and then began to diminish, and continued gradually decreasing until every vestige of disease was removed. The tumor in her left breast, and those in the right axilla were also dispersed. No Cancerous or Cancerous tumors ever appeared afterwards; and her general health, which had been so bad for fourteen years, was now a life barrier, was effectually and permanently restored.

Prepared only by Dr. D. Jayne, Philadelphia,
